India's street children

FRIENDS OF SALAAM BAALAK TRUST

Friends of SBT supports Salaam Baalak Trust to get vulnerable children off the street and on their feet through the provision of safe shelter, healthcare, nutritious food, education and access to support.

Funds we raise in the UK are spent:

- Providing 24 hour residential care for up to 400 children aged 4-18 years at any given time, through the running and staffing of seven residential care homes in Delhi.
- In the provision of 10 day-care centres, known locally as Contact Points, for non-residential, vulnerable children who need support.
- Enabling 3 emergency childline telephone helplines to provide help for 1200-1500 children and young people every year.

In doing this, we aim to encourage a sense of safety, self-worth, confidence and rounded social development for as many vulnerable children in dangerous and precarious situations as possible.

You may have spent time in India and have witnessed the brutally hard life street children there have. Perhaps you've been inspired by the City Walk in the streets of Delhi, or through a volunteering experience.

Whatever your reason for wanting to make a change to the lives of the children supported by Salaam Baalak Trust, leaving a gift in your Will through Friends of SBT will make a last difference.

We recommend you use a solicitor or professional Will writer to have your Will drafted. You can inform your solicitor or professional Will writer that you would like to leave a gift to Friends of Salaam Baalak Trust and they will help you to include it in your wishes. The document is intended as a guide only.

What type of gift can I leave?

There are two main ways of leaving a gift in your Will. A pecuniary legacy (also known as a cash gift) is a fixed amount of money, while a residuary legacy (also known as a share in your estate) is a percentage or share of the balance of your estate, once all other payments and gifts have been made. Many supporters choose to leave a residual gift as it keeps in line with inflation and doesn't lose value over time.

Are there any tax benefits if I leave a charitable gift in my Will?

Most charitable gifts are exempt from Inheritance Tax, and they can even reduce the amount of tax your estate has to pay. To find out more, visit HMRC on gov.uk/inheritance-tax or ask your solicitor.
